We are khujo: a successful and expanding urban fashion brand with innovative ideas. A high demand for quality and lifestyle affinity as well as a special passion for unusual details and authentic design characterise us. Authentic design are what set us apart. As a result, our collections are not only a permanent fixture in the assortments of fashion and online shops, but also as coveted fashion must-haves with a very special signature. As a hybrid company, we are active in both the traditional B2B and e-commerce B2C sectors. To continue our successful story in the future, we might be looking for exactly you!

WHAT WE SEEK

- » A studied clothing technologist or person with comparable practice skills
- » Experience in the professional assessment of collections in terms of fit, quality, material and workmanship
- » Experience in communicating with international suppliers
- » Ownership and responsibility to ensure that all products meet our high quality expectations from initial style development all the way through to bulk productions and shipping stage
- » Knowledge in the development and creation of worksheets and measurement charts for samples and productions
- » Enthusiasm about urban streetwear and a feeling for current trends and their, fits
- » Experience in using MS Office applications and very good English skills
- » Ability to keep motivated and stay focused even when the "going-gets-tough"

YOU WANT TO

- » Work closely with the design team to develop our collection
- » Control and ensure compliance with all legal EU requirements for textiles
- » Evaluate and optimise the fabric quality, fit and finish of our samples and prototypes
- » Develop and ensure brand quality
- » Be the direct contact and interface for our international supplier network

WHAT WILL YOU GET

- » A young and international company with a varied product portfolio
- » A committed team that develops true innovations
- » An exciting working environment with flat hierarchies and development opportunities in the heart of Hamburg
- » A creative atmosphere
- » A future-proof workplace
